

Oliver Y. Chin, MD

Treating You as an Individual

“I find it very rewarding to meet face-to-face with a person. I listen to what’s been going on and find out what is bothering you, and we work together to develop a treatment plan that will provide the optimal outcome for you.”

Help You Remain Part of Things

“Helen Keller said, ‘Blindness cuts us off from things, but deafness cuts us off from people.’ One of the biggest reasons I became an otolaryngologist was to help people with hearing and balance problems. They are integral senses that help us to be who we are as humans.”

A Family Introduction to Medicine

“My mom is a nurse and watching her interact with patients greatly impacted how I practice medicine. She treated everybody as if they were family. She was always very compassionate. She listened to what everybody had to say. She was extremely patient.”

Falling in Love with Houston

“I truly enjoy Houston. The diversity is second to none. The variety of cuisines and cultures is amazing. I like the interaction with people from different backgrounds. Plus, I love exploring the city with my wife, trying new foods together, and then cooking them at home.”

Memberships

- Member, American Academy of Otolaryngology-Head and Neck Surgery
- Member, Harris County Medical Society
- Member, Texas Medical Association
- Peer-reviewed author and researcher
- Fluent in Mandarin

Education

- Chief Resident, Department of Otolaryngology-Head and Neck Surgery, UC Davis Medical Center, Sacramento, CA
- Resident Physician, Department of Otolaryngology-Head and Neck Surgery, UC Davis Medical Center, Sacramento, CA
- Doctor of Medicine, Rutgers New Jersey Medical School, Newark, NJ
- Bachelor of Arts in Cell Biology and Neuroscience, Bachelor of Arts in Psychology, Minor in Chemistry,
- Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, New Brunswick, NJ, Magna Cum Laude

